

Do You Have Any of the Following Symptoms?

Patient Name: _____

The following symptoms can relate to occlusal disease, and are important to know before examining a patient's mouth. These symptoms may relate to bruxism or excessive grinding or clenching of the teeth (not related to normal chewing movement).

If you find you have any of these symptoms it is important to make an appointment with one of our dentists to examine your mouth and jaw joints. Please note, all New Patient Experience appointments include a screening of your jaw joint.
